

EFC Summer Series

Terms and Conditions

This is our Studio Practice Policy (where applicable, this extends to all our online classes, offers and subscriptions). Students who sign-up, register for or subscribe to any of our content or classes are subject to these policies however it applies to their specific physical classroom or online class situation. We reserve the right to refuse service to anyone.

Entertainment for Change, Inc is a 501©3 nonprofit organization that is dedicated to educating young people around the United Nations' 17 Sustainable Development Goals through the power of the arts and entertainment. These terms are non-negotiable and comply with USA Federal law and are enforceable according to the fullest extent of the law. Agreeing to these terms and conditions indicate, across the board, a full and clear understanding of and compliance with everything stipulated in the entirety of this document as intended by Entertainment for Change, Inc Entertainment for Change, Inc, (© 2016, All Rights Reserved) is a nonprofit that is committed to providing a safe and inclusive space for kids and teens. We reserve our right to refuse to conduct business with anyone who do not follow our policies, terms and conditions, officially or unofficially, in full (including our extended terms and conditions – link below).

Agreeing to this document also implies and constitutes, without any exceptions, that you agree to the full list of terms and conditions of conducting business with Entertainment for Change, Inc. in any type of capacity.

Copyright:

- Entertainment for Change, Inc reserves all copy rights and intellectual property rights to the fullest extent of the law. Teachers are aware that they can not record, photograph, distribute, share, copy or scan any of our virtual classroom activities, methodologies, art or student work/thoughts/verbal language, in a professional or personal capacity, utilizing any type of publication, platform, communication methods or distribution efforts or services. If teachers feel it would be beneficial to have any form of video/photo, they will communicate with parents and legal guardians of all kids/teens involved in advance to respect and honor privacy.

Ethical business conduct:

- We require respectful, ethical, lawful and professional business conduct at all time, from both teachers and students.

- You cannot misrepresent our business or damage our reputation or business in any way, shape or form.
- You may not use our business as a platform for promoting yourself or your art and you may not usurp our business with other individuals, businesses or organizations in any way, shape or form.
- You may never represent, promote or create anything on behalf of our business or claim unauthorized endorsements from us in any way, shape or form.
- You are responsible for working with us. We cannot force you to have results. Results depend on your ability and willingness to work with us and continue to build upon what you learn in class, at home, on your own.
- We are not responsible for promoting your art or advancing your career or business ventures in any way, shape or form.
- All work you do with us, all homework, must be the child's own.
- On behalf of your child, we encourage you to support them honoring class-times and meeting times, and communicate to us if you will not be showing up.
- Your payment includes four, one hour classes in total.
- We refer to the terms of conditions of ZOOM and PayPal, and hold the platforms accountable for any liability in terms of privacy and payment.

Safe studio practice and liability:

- We are not liable for anything that happens in the space in which the student will be taking the virtual class.
- We are not responsible for carrying insurance of any kind on your behalf and you will be responsible for your child's safety.
- Entertainment for Change, Inc is committed to collaborating with thoughtful independent contractors (artists/teachers) and as an entity, is not liable for individual behaviors.
- We are not liable for any medical and / or other types of unforeseen events or emergencies and will follow best practices in such instances.

Classroom / online conduct:

- We have a zero tolerance policy regarding bullying, lewd or disrespectful conduct or harassment of any kind in person or online – this also covers, but is not limited to, our assistants, contractors, family members, friends, other students, property, facilities or online classroom environments.
- We encourage our students to attend any and all classes with a positive attitude, ready to learn and we do not tolerate bad learning attitudes or habits.

- If a class needs to be cancelled, discontinued or postponed, we will deal with it as stipulated in our extended terms and conditions (see link above).
- Scheduling, commencement and continuation of any classes must be honored according to all our terms and conditions. Failure to do so may result in cancelled classes without reimbursement.

Payments and Communications:

- You must honor all our payment and communications policies and procedures as required for any specific transaction of any kind.
- Payments and communications are required online.
- We cannot accept cash, checks or crypto currency or currencies in any other monetary unit besides the USA dollar.
- Payment will not be accepted unless contract agreements are signed and / or terms and conditions as we stipulate are agreed upon in writing or by marking such as agreed upon online.

Final Disclosures:

- It is understood that Entertainment for Change, Inc does not offer any degrees nor are we an accredited academic institution.
- Entertainment for Change, Inc reserves the right to change / update and adjust our policies, terms and conditions as we may see fit at any time and these will still be binding.
- Parents, legal guardians and students will be notified when any significant changes in policy, terms and conditions ever occur.